SIMPLY DELICIOUS!

Last Friday Minden United held its 7th annual Luncheon and Bazaar with some 200 persons on hand to make it the event's largest crowd yet. Far and away the youngest and certainly one of the most interested in attendance was 13-months-old Jarret Campbell, son of Jeff and Nadene Campbell and grandson of Don and Pat Campbell who decided that luncheon-bazaars are just great, thank you very much!

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce

One advantage to living in the Haliburton Highlands is that when you go on holidays you can truthfully say that it's nice to get home. It's great to get out and look around at how the rest of the world lives, but when you get home you have that feeling that you never saw anything quite as nice as this.

We spent the last three weeks traveling in a camper as far south as Florida. We saw a lot of country, and observed a lot of tourist areas. Sometimes we tend to think we are the only ones with substantial tourist problems, but a trip of this nature certainly indicates that some of our problems are shared in varying degrees by tourist areas as far away as Florida. One observation was that campgrounds in the United States can hardly be called that any more, and in fact are more often referred to as camping resorts or R.V. (recreational vehicle) parks. The once popular tent trailer has pretty well disappeared entirely and most parks are completely filled up with large trailers and motor homes. Even the camper on a pick-up truck such as we were using is almost extinct in the southern United States. If Americans with this sophisticated equipment are to be enticed to spend any part of their time in our area it is obvious that many of our campgrounds would require considerable upgrading to provide the facilities that these people are used to.

We see the Ministry of Environment has been at it again, now with the acid rain scare. This particular branch of our Provincial government almost appears to be working on behalf of the American Department of Tourism. Their latest report was given considerable play in the American papers, and of course, they somehow miss the footnote that there is no particular danger to personal health because of this so-called pollution. It is nice to know that the Ministry of Environment is continually testing our lakes and rivers to make sure they are safe and pollution free, but we fail to see what possible good can come from these press releases which almost seem to be designed to scare tourists away from tourist country.

We are pleased to announce that the Ontario Chamber of Commerce has appointed our president, Dennis Casey, to their Board of Directors for the coming year. Dennis will be representing not only our Chamber but the Kawartha Region as well, which encompasses some seven or eight Chambers of Commerce. It will be a definite asset for our area to have this direct representation on the Ontario board to help carry some of our pressing issues to Queen's Park.

As a result of policies established at the Ontario Chamber annual meeting a number of submissions have now been presented to various cabinet ministers. Two that particularly concern us have been submitted to the Honorable Frank Miller, Minister of Natural Resources. This year the Ontario Chamber membership has adopted and approved the following

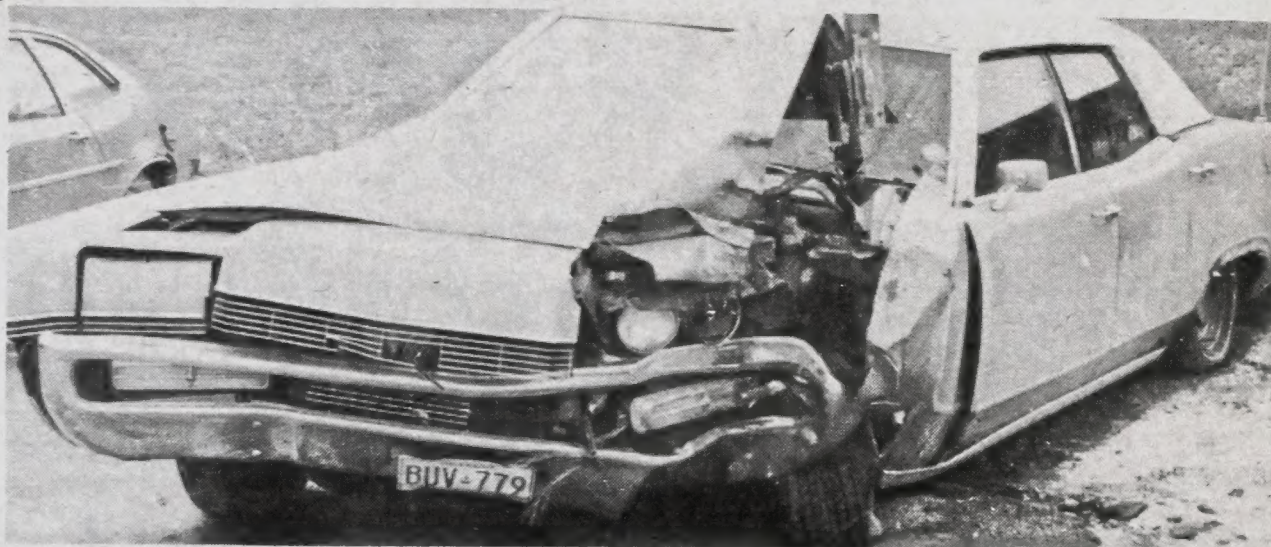

1. It is recommended that the leasing of water lots from the Ministry of Natural Resources should be continued only on a voluntary basis. The present practice of making it mandatory for commercial operators only to lease water lots is discriminatory and should be discontinued. It is further recommended that all commercial operators who have been required to sign a water lot agreement should be permitted to cancel these contracts and have their money refunded.

2. It is recommended that with the exception of students on a study program or projects of similar nature, a shorter time limit should be imposed relative to the use of Provincial Parks in order that more Ontario residents have full use of the parks. Rates in provincial parks should be based on cost of operations similar to privately owned campgrounds. A combination of low rates in provincial parks and free use to special interest groups is unfair to private park operators.

In order to prepare a constructive presentation on the effects of low water levels on our economy we recently have circulated a questionnaire to a large portion of our membership and to private cottage owners. The response from the cottage owners has been overwhelming, while the response for our members has been disappointing. It would be a sad commentary to assume that this issue is of more importance to cottagers than it is to those of us who derive their living in the community. The committee will be meeting this Saturday to begin coaling the results of this survey into a presentation. We urge all members to return their survey sheets immediately so that they can be included, and help this committee to build a meaningful document.

Just before leaving on holidays we were honored to be present at Bob Vick's Warden's banquet. Never before have we had the pleasure of hearing such a wonderful address as was given by Bob that night. Bob is known as a down-to-earth person, and his speech was exactly that, down-to-earth. We wish to congratulate Bob not only on an extremely successful year as Warden but on his extremely successful banquet.

Probe death of crash victim found shot, burned

A still unidentified Oakville motorist was found dead behind the wheel of this car, (above), on a lonely sideroad, running off the Howland Junction Road near Kinmount. The man had been shot through the head and was partially burned. Hunters found the car rammed against this tree (below) at the end of a 40-foot trail of torn sod and upturned boulders.

Police and pathologists are still probing the violent death of an Oakville motorist found behind the wheel of his smashed car near the Howland Junction Road last Saturday morning.

He had been shot in the head with a shotgun blast and was partially burned.

Although police believe they know the victim's identity, his name has not been released pending confirmation of identification.

The initial discovery was made by three Toronto hunters who came upon the fire-blackened car rammed against a tree beneath the base of a 100-foot cliff at the sideroad's end.

Called by the hunters, police found the victim partly on the floor, his head against the dashboard.

A single barrel, 12 gauge shotgun with a spent shell in the breech was found in the car along with a knife and a hammer.

The interior of the car had been partially gutted by fire.

It was not until the body had been taken to Welch's Funeral Home in Minden however that police learned the man had been shot.

He had been shot through the head from just below the left jaw, and was burned about the face and head as well.

The body was then taken to the Province's Forensic Sciences Centre in Toronto where pathologists are working to determine just how the man died, and if he, in fact, did take his own life as police suspect.

Acid pollution imperils fishing

A furious Haliburton County Council last week braced representatives from the Ministry of Environment over a report published in the Toronto Star that predicted the end of all fishing in the county.

The report dealt with acidic precipitation and council was angry that it had been released to the Toronto-based daily by the Ministry before local council members were even made aware of its existence.

Doctor Thomas G. Brydges, a Toronto representative from the Ministry, faced the full impact of council's fury as he attempted to explain that the facts in the 'Green Report' were entirely 'misinterpreted' by the press. He said that there was little truth in the published article which in seeking sensationalism had doomed the future of fishing in the Haliburton area.

He did admit, however, that if the acidity of some Haliburton County Lakes continues to increase there will be a complete loss of 'fisheries' in those lakes, some within the next five years. The report indicated that acid precipitation in the lakes of Haliburton County spelt eventual doom for fishing in at least some county lakes. Accusations flew as Warden Robert Vick and his council made it clear that because of Haliburton's dependence on tourism 'a great deal of harm could result from misinformation of this kind. Lutterworth Reeve Pat Conaghan even suggested that the county be compensated for losses subsequently suffered by the area due to the bad publicity. He asked further that the Minister of Environment be requested to at least advise municipalities of information of this kind before divulging it to others.

Dr. Brydges explained that the acidity actually stemmed from far away industrial complexes and was air-borne to the Highlands where it fell in the form of rain, snow and sleet. He said the problem was world-wide in scope and that, as a result, 'we can predict fairly well the consequences of what seems to be happening

He said measurements of the PH factor and acidic levels of rainwater and melted snow at Dorset, Carnarvon and Eagle Lake seem to indicate the acidity of some local lakes is on the increase. Further, he pointed out, lakes such as those in the Kawarthas, which have an ample supply of alkaline material such as limestone can buffer or counter the acidic effect.

He said his Ministry was primarily concerned with pre-Cambrian shield areas such as Haliburton County that lack limestone and its capacity to neutralize the acid.

Dr. Brydges went on to say that the higher the acidic level the less fish are able to spawn; also there is a marked disruption in the food chain.

Asked if the acid levels of lakes posed any danger to human health, he stated that there was none, and remarked that there is a much higher acidic level in the soft-drinks we consume.

Minden Rotary Club seeks award candidates

Dr. Leonard Burch, president of the Rotary Club of Minden, has announced that the club is searching for young people as candidates for Rotary Foundation educational awards for study abroad in 1979-80.

The awards, for graduate and undergraduate students teachers of the handicapped students in technical training programs, and journalists, provide round-trip transportation, educational and living expenses for one academic year, and funds for intensive language training, if necessary.

Since the program began in 1947, The Rotary Foundation has sponsored more than 10,000 students at a cost of $35 million involving 127 countries. A trust supported by Voluntary contributions from Rotarians, Rotary clubs and others in more than 150 Rotary countries, the Foundation will spend $25.4 million over the next three years.

The deadline for application to your local Rotary club is 1 March, 1978. Contact Dick Schell for further information on eligibility and application procedure.

Open house a success

What began as just another week around Minden ended with a real flurry last week as Minto Marine staged as special three-day open house to demonstrate the latest in

Moto-Ski snowmobiles, and, of course, all the great variety of equipment and gear for snowmobiling. Yes, Minto Marine's showroom was a busy place, especially when eager young ladies such as ten-year-old Jeanette Pilcher of Minden got all rigged out to crouch behind the windshield of an exciting, new snow machine, above.

Unbelievable

It was an unbelievable sight!

There, plain as life, was Egyptian President Sadat kissing both Israel's Golda Meir and the country's head rabbi.

And, most of us, as we watched our TV screens, had that pinch-me feeling that we were truly privy to a great and historic moment.

Certainly, if peace is to come to the mid-east it can only be through such measures as this.

And if the response of the peoples of both Israel and Egypt to President Sadat's visit is a valid indicator, then a lasting peace and friendship between their two countries is their heartfelt wish.

Now, with this one brief, dramatic act, President Sadat has bridged 30 years of violence, death and suffering and made the possibility of peace in the middle east a viable reality.

To make this initial move as Sadat did, in defiance of his country's thunderously radical allies, took a brave man and a big one.

Refreshing

Frank Drea, Ontario's outspoken Minister of Correctional Institutions has always been his own man. A former reporter with the old Tely, he's an incisive thinker, an able debator and never, but never, a yes-man.

This has all come to the fore in recent months following his cabinet appointment. An appointment that has to be far and away the smartest move Premier Davis has made in years.

In fact, since taking over the correctional institutions ministry, Mr. Drea has infused an entirely new spirit into the troubled and faltering area of government administration.

From practical cost-cutting to tearing down Toronto's notorious 'dungeon' the Don Jail, Drea has demonstrated a down-to-earth no-nonsense approach to his new job that has everyone - politicians, voters, civil servants and even prisoners sitting up and applauding.

Refreshing, isn't it!

Report from Queen's Park

John Eakins, M.P.P.

Shortly after the Legislature gave second reading to the Private Member's Bill to raise the drinking age to 19, the Premier held a press conference, at which he stated that his Government would allow the Bill to die on the order paper. 'Raising the age is not by itself going to solve what I perceive to be a significant social problem', he said, and indicated that his Government will move next February 'by resolution and/or stricter enforcement of liquor laws, tougher measures against people selling liquor to minors and more stringent guidelines for liquor advertising.

A select committee, with members of all three parties, has been established to report in about five weeks on what, if anything, can be done about massive layoffs planned by Inco Ltd. We, in the Liberal Party attempted to expand the committee's terms of reference to allow it to study problems in resource industries in general. Stuart Smith said that if this could not be done, the committee could continue sitting next year, to come up with recommendations to the government on resources development policy. The terms of reference of the committee allow it to call company and union officials from Inco to explain factors leading to the decision to eliminate 2,800 jobs early next year in Sudbury and Port Colborne. It will also 'examine the future plans of the company in relationship to the effect on the Canadian operations'.

Opposition Members have called upon the Attorney General to explain why no charges were laid as a result of an incident in 1975, involving a Bramalea developer who asked the Provincial Treasurer to obtain an early OMB hearing. The Attorney General has stated that 'The matter of charges was reviewed by most of the senior law officers in the criminal division of the ministry', but 'it was their considered opinion not to lay charges'. Bob Nixon (Liberal) (Brant-Oxford-Norfolk) has maintained that the A.G. should 'satisfy the community, and in the same vein, the members of the House, as to why he took a decision under certain circumstances'. Albert Roy, Liberal MPP for Ottawa East, has pointed out that generally the police and legal officers are very sensitive about laying charges under the relevant section of the Criminal Code, and that an opinion is usually sought from the A.G.'s office. 'Generally speaking, the opinion is exceedingly important because the police will follow it', he said.

As an economy move, the Ontario Ministry of Health is laying off staff. Sixty-four 'unclassified' workers at five psychiatric hospitals have been given notice, four Queen's Park staff have been laid off, the Windsor office of the Ontario Health Insurance Plan has been demoted to a sub-office. Total savings are estimated at $2 million. Thirty-one of the 64 laid-off hospital workers are full-time and 33 part-time. They include nurses, food-service helpers, a cook, cleaners, manual workers, a switchboard operator, a laundry worker and an occupational therapist.

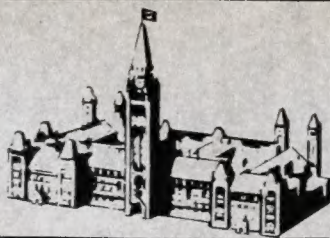

The Windsor regional office of OHIP, which has a staff of 51, will be converted to a sub-office with a staff of five after December 31. Twenty-seven employees have been offered jobs in London next year, and the other 19 will be subject to lay-off.

In a statement to the Royal Commission on the Northern Environment, Reed Ltd. suggested it will not be able to go ahead with a plan to harvest 19,000 square miles north of Dryden. Unless the company can make a better profit than its present situation suggests, it will not be able to proceed with its proposed mill. (The company is said to be losing $20 million this year).

The Minister of Natural Resources has told the Legislature that there is little hope for this project. The pulp industry is in trouble financially because of world over-supply and dumping on the market by Scandinavia countries. You will recall that a memorandum of agreement signed by Reed and the Government last year would have given the company timber rights in a huge tract of land and allowed a mill in the Red Lake area if the environmental, social, cultural and economic impact on the North was not found to be too high a price to pay. The Royal Commission was established as a result of strong opposition from ourselves and the NDP to this controversial memorandum of agreement.

Following Reed's recent statement, Liberal Leader Stuart Smith suggested possible alternatives were for another company to build a mill, with timber rights going in smaller parcels to several companies who would all use the mill, or permitting smaller operators to use existing mills and/or build small-scale new mills. The Minister believes it is unlikely that any new pulp mill could survive in today's economic conditions unless it had access to all the timber from the area under study.

OTTAWA and Small Business

An engineer is someone who can take a theory and put wheels on it. While the rest of the world dreams, the engineers are busy making dreams reality.

"Fly me to the moon," someone once said, jokingly. So the scientists put men on the moon. "Build a better mousetrap." So they did. That's the way it works.

The only real limitation on engineering accomplishments, in fact, seems to be the shortage of new ideas. The world needs more dreamers to keep the engineers busy.

Since the O.P.E.C. countries so rudely interrupted North America's petroleum flow, these have been fruitful times for the visionaries and dreamers. It follows that the engineers haven't been idle, either. Right now, the engineers are putting finishing touches on technology that will change the way we live and our need for fossil fuels.

One of the greatest needs for petroleum products can be found in the extensive travelling our society demands. All workers commute to an office, even if it's only a matter of a few blocks. Executives commonly travel thousands of miles to attend conferences and business meetings. But technology can eliminate much of the need for workers to leave home and executives to leave the office.

We won't need as much petroleum for two reasons: (a) because we won't use as much energy in total and (b) because there will be new sources of energy.

Take travel, one of our principal uses for petroleum, for instance. The worker of tomorrow will have no need to commute; his home will be electronically linked to the "office" even to the extent of providing instant copies of documents. And businessmen will have no need to travel for meetings; instead, they can send a three-dimensional image of themselves, much like today's telephone call. Those images will be utterly lifelike - unless you try to shake hands.

Meanwhile the space technicians are completing work on giant satellites that will gather the sun's energy long before it is dissipated by the earth's atmosphere. This energy can then be beamed down in microwave form. As much as 25% of our electrical needs could be met this way within three decades. And, in a modified version, the satellites can be set to send light into agricultural areas 24 hours a day, greatly increasing the world's potential food supply.

Among the few organizations that have begun to think of the social implications of the new technology is the Canadian Federation of Independent Business. The CFIB eagerly anticipates the new communications breakthroughs which will eliminate much of the need for large head offices and big cities; this kind of technology will result in diffusion of power.

But the Federation also warns that some of the new technology could cause even more concentration of power - economic and bureaucratic - than is already the case. The satellite program alone, for instance, could only be financed by enormous corporations.

The message from the CFIB is simple. The technology may be marvellous but its ultimate worth to society depends on how it is implemented. We have the power to build a new society. But will it be a better society?

Sadat visits Israel...How it really happened!

This past weekend an unbelieving world watched as Egyptian Premier Anwar Sadat became the first Arab Leader to ever visit Israel.

It was an historic and emotional moment and most of us were thoroughly impressed with the planning and logistics involved in providing a full head-of-state welcome for Sadat, including cordon on cordon of unprecedented security.

What isn't so well known is that the single biggest problem faced by Israel on this occasion was the Egyptian National Anthem and making sure that it was properly played as Sadat stepped from the plane at Tel Aviv last Saturday.

Naturally, before the Israeli National Band could even start to learn the Egyptian National Anthem they had to find someone in Israel who knew it.

When a quick call for help proved fruitless the Israeli government's national computer was asked to provide the answer.

Unfortunately the names of all those Israelis known to have at some time or other sung or whistled the Egyptian National Anthem carried the notation 'deceased.' At this point it quickly became apparent that desperate measures were in order if Mr. Sadat was not to be denied the accord due him.

Thus, following an all-night session of the Israeli Cabinet, Israel took the unprecedented step of calling all its spies currently in Egypt in the understandable belief that having been exposed in varying degrees over the years to the Egyptian National Anthem at soccer games and sure, surely one or two Israeli intelligence officers might be found who could solve their country's knotty protocol problem.

Then began a crash (sic!) airlift to put the famous Berlin Airlift to shame as Israel desperately flew home planeload after planeload after planeload of its spies from Egypt.

With less than 12 hours to go before Sadat's arrival, two repatriated spies were found who actually knew passages from the Egyptian National Anthem.

Rushed before the Israeli cabinet, one unfortunately suspected a trap and refused point-blank to whistle what he knew, while the second turned out to be tone-deaf. Not until a desperate Israeli cabinet member with a sensitive nose insisted that the first spy take a shower was the problem solved.

On playing back the tape from the recorder microphone hidden in his bath-soap it was found that the unsuspecting spy had unwittingly whistled and sung a melody which when fed through the government's computer came back irrevocably stamped 'Egyptian National Anthem...Top Secret.'

The rest is history. Israel's top music craftsmen, all schooled in Tin Pan Alley, quickly orchestrated the number and had it on the music stands of the waiting Israeli National Band scant hours before Sadat's tumultuous and highly successful arrival.

Dressing room thief caught in act

A 16-year-old Brampton youth caught in the act of stealing money and valuables from a visiting hockey team's dressing room last Saturday night has been charged by police.

Police say Gregory R. Howe faces eight separate charges of theft under $200.

The occasion was last Saturday's Haliburton Midgets vs. Cannington game, won by Haliburton 6-0.

According to police Howe crawled through an open window into the Cannington team's dressing room but was spotted by a spectator, who called Haliburton Huskies team manager Don Lloyd who, in turn, detained Howe for police.

Some $34.90 in cash plus a watch and a ring with a total value of $240 was recovered. Investigation by Provincial Constable Al Bibby.

Wilberforce man fined for U.I.C. fraud

A Wilberforce man, Ricky Banks, age 20, was found guilty in Minden court this week, for failing to disclose employment earnings he had received over an eight-week period while collecting unemployment insurance. Charged under the Unemployment Insurance Act, Banks collected some $485 in U.I.C. funds between February 1 and April 4, 1976. He was fined $400 or 30 days by Judge G.F. W. Inrig who gave him 50 days to pay the fine.

Two other persons pleaded guilty to a total of eight offenses in Lindsay court last week, of making false statements to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Gladys James of Bobcaygeon, entered a plea of guilty to five counts of making false statements regarding her total earnings. She was fine $250 or 25 days in jail, with 60 days to pay.

Rick Duffy, 24 years of age and a resident of Lindsay, pleaded guilty to three offences of making false statements to the U.I.C. He was also fined $250 by Judge Inrig and given 25 days in jail or 30 days to pay.

$2,500 damages in two crashes

Damages totalled over $2,500 in two separate collisions last week which saw cars hit guide posts and a guard rail on Highway 35. Two persons were injured. Sunday evening Dale H. Insoley, 18, of North Bay, was northbound on Highway 35 just north of Miners Bay, when his car went out of control and struck a guide rail, then rolled down a 100-foot embankment.

Both the driver and his passenger Vance Doolan, age 18, also from North Bay, were treated at Minden hospital for minor injuries. Estimated damages to the auto were $2,000. Investigation by Provincial Constable Bob Pearson. Friday morning June Holland, 29, of Minden was northbound on Highway 35 just north of the Gull River bridge, when her car struck

NEW BUSINESS

New upholstery firm catches on

By Bill Foote

Its located on Highway 121 just west of Haliburton Village and what's more, it's catching on. We're referring, of course, to Mahaffy Upholstering and Interiors opened late this past summer by proprietor Al Mahaffy. After some 18 years in his own upholstery business in the Georgetown area Al decided it was time he and his family moved to God's country and, naturally enough, they picked Haliburton County. That his wife Joyce, (nee Pearson) was born and raised in Haliburton Village made it almost like coming home. Today his recently constructed 48 by 24 foot shop is in full operation, complete with second floor storage area plus main floor workshop and future showroom: while his new home right next door nears completion. Stressing quality work at competitive prices, Mr. Mahaffy offers customers both upholstery and furniture refinishing and currently employs one man who works alongside him and his wife. Above, top photo, Mr. Mahaffy, right, instructs employee Steve Barker of Carnarvon as they reupholster a customer's chesterfield.

Arrests solve 17 Spar Lake breakins

The arrest of a Kirkfield man and his 19-year-old buddy for a series of cottage breakins in Lutterworth's Spar Lake area last week has solved six other area cottage breakins outstanding from last August and led to the arrest of two other men as well. Police say that 11 area cottages were broken into during a three-day period last week.

three guide posts on the west shoulder of the road. Damages to the car and guide posts totalled $550. Investigated by Provincial Constable Dennis Potter.

David P. LaPointe, 22, of Kirkfield and Anthony P. Taylor, 19, of no fixed address have been charged by police with 11 counts each of breaking and entering as a result.

Following further investigation LaPointe now faces six additional charges dating back to August: one of breaking and entering and five of break, enter and theft.

Also charged with the same six August offences are Timothy P. Flynn, 22, of Kirkfield and Michael S. James, 20, of Cobocok. Cooperating on the two investigations were Provincial Constables Bill Clendenning and Roy Telford.

The trees have lost their leaves of green,
A pretty flower cannot be seen.

It's November!

Our lucky friends are heading south,
It makes us feel down in the mouth.

It's November!

But soon we'll trim our Christmas trees,
And icicles will start to freeze.

The ground will have a blanket of snow,
The short dull days will longer grow.

In Happy December!

Wolf bounty deferred to 1978

Hunters and trappers who've been bounty-hunting wolves in the Highlands of Haliburton this past month were left holding their hides last week as Haliburton County Council ruled that its $25 wolf bounty would not go into effect until at least the first of the year.

At its October meeting council unanimously approved a resolution calling for the imposition of the bounty after it learned that predatory wolves were destroying the County's beaver and its trappers' livelihoods at the same time.

Although similar wolf bounty programs are in effect in other counties, such as neighboring Victoria County, a cautious County Council decided last week to seek assurance that the proposed bounty is not contrary to the Ontario Municipal Act before approving the necessary by-law to implement the program.

Following last month's meeting a local Ministry of Natural Resources official indicated there was nothing to prevent council from imposing the bounty insofar as the Ministry is concerned. In fact, the Ministry will not become involved in the matter one way or the other, another official said last week.

A special meeting of Agricultural Society will be held at the Municipal Building, November 28 at 8 pm. At this Committee for the following--needlecraft, handicraft, hobbies, floral, domestic science, Fair Queen and Junior list will be selected. Your membership of $3 gives voting privileges and exhibiting for 1978. Anyone interested in the above, please come and bring suggestions or complaints. Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. A. Horsley, Mrs. E. Neimann, Mrs. O. Brohm and Mr. A. Thorpe who passed away recently.

The UCW had a very successful Christmas Luncheon Bazaar last Friday and many people found that 'special' gift for a relative or friend.

Winners at the weekly Mini Card Party at St. Paul's Parish Hall last Thursday afternoon were for bridge Hilda Rush, Cribbage Bill Bennett and Fred Wright and for euchre lon hands Doris Craig, Nellie MacMinn and Ethel Leigh.

Last Tuesday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Brydson of Bracebridge and Mr. and Mrs. Alf Moore of Bobcaygeon called on Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore and Mrs. Ben Harrison, the latter had been visiting the Bill Moores.

We are pleased to report Jean Taylor will be back in town later this week after some time in hospital at Bowmanville and visiting her daughter and family and also Lenore Prentice has been in our local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hughes and family of Mississauga spent the weekend with the Robert Hughes.

Sunday guests with Mrs. Harry Welch, were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Welch and Heather of Frankford.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Coulter of Kirkfield visited relatives here on Sunday.

It will be a busy week, with Thursday, November 24 discount at Stedmans until 9, then showing of free films by Ambulance Service at Municipal Building; Monday night November 28 at 8 a card party at the Orange Hall (beside United Church) then Tuesday, November 29 the Library Planning Committee invites everyone to come out and see what has been done and add your ideas to theirs. Time is 8 pm at St. Paul's Parish Hall.

Sunday guests with Mr. and Mrs. M. Sears were Miss Sandra Sears of Barrie, Randy White of Newmarket and Glen Sears, Bernice, Allan and Connie of West Hill. Next weekend will see the end of C.F.L. for the season as Edmonton takes on the Alouettes but most people will be interested in watching the Grey Cup Parade.

Do you think this is true? One of the most important trips one can make is that which involves meeting the other person halfway.

Tri-County Midget wins one of three in past week's action

The Tri-County Midgets played three games winning one and losing two. The Midgets were defeated by Lindsay 4 to 2 on November 15. The Minden goal scorers were Dennis Stribling and Kim Hamilton.

The Tri-County Midgets absorbed their second loss in Haliburton, as the midgets were soundly beaten 11-1. The lone Minden goal was scored by Kim Hamilton. The Midgets then returned to the friendly confines of the Minden Community Centre to defeat Millbrooke 4-2. They scored twice in the first period on goals by Leslie Booth and the first of 2 goals of the night for Kim Hamilton.

In the second period there was no scoring in spite of the fact that Minden played shorthanded for much of the second period.

Minden stuck to hockey in the third period and added two more goals, one by Rex Anderson, while Kim Hamilton scored the other.

Millbrooke scored their first of two goals on a penalty shot. The penalty shot was awarded after a Minden defender gloved the puck in a goal-mouth scramble.

Millbrooke added a second goal in the late stages of the game.

BANTAMS

The Tri County Bantam B's played twice and lost twice last week. The Bantams went down to defeat to Beaverton 5-0 in Beaverton November 15.

Then, the Bantams played at home November 20 against Haliburton and although Minden outplayed Haliburton for much of the game, Haliburton made the most of their scoring opportunities and won 5-2.

Driver training schools

The Stanhope Fire Hall, located on the North Shore Road, will be the scene of a snowmobile drivers course Sunday, December 4th. Bob Patton and Bob Jennings, instructors for the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, will work together on this one. The session begins at 9 a.m. One day earlier, Saturday, December 3rd, Wm Joyce will be instructing for the Kenna Lake Snowmobile Association at Kenna Lake. His school will also begin at 9. The Somerville and District Snowmobile Association held their first school of the season last weekend. Instructor Erick Watson divided his course in two sessions, Saturday and Sunday afternoon, and used the facilities of the Burnt River Public School. All snowmobiling families with children twelve to sixteen (or older members of the family who are unlicensed) are urged to enroll them for an up-coming class. For information and application forms, write or phone Roy Bates, RR 2, Haliburton, Ont. KOM 1S0, or your local snowmobile club.

Snowmobile clubs plan exciting winter

This writer has just finished editing material from nearly a dozen club newsletters for the new magazine, SNOWMOBILE SPORTS. This is the publication launched in September which carries the news of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs and is a part of the membership package of all Federated Clubs. At last week's Leamington meeting of the O.F.S.C., we were appointed (or we volunteered, we are not sure which) to take on the job of compiling the information from club bulletins, another Labor of Love for snowmobilers.

It is the time of year when interest in snowmobile clubs is at a high level. Club executives and their committee chairmen are scrambling to put on a succession of fun events for their members during the season and the majority of newsletters carried a full calendar of these events. We were a little amazed, and no less pleased, by the extent of social activity in the clubs, particularly those to the South. A couple of special events are worth mentioning here. The DRUMBO SNOWMOBILE CLUB plans a Family Day geared to the pleasure of non-snowmobiling members of the family, the very young and the very old. A major feature of the day's fun is an old-fashioned hay ride with a team and bob-sleighs provided by a friendly local farmer. It seems to us that this kind of event should be on every club calendar. And so should this next one!

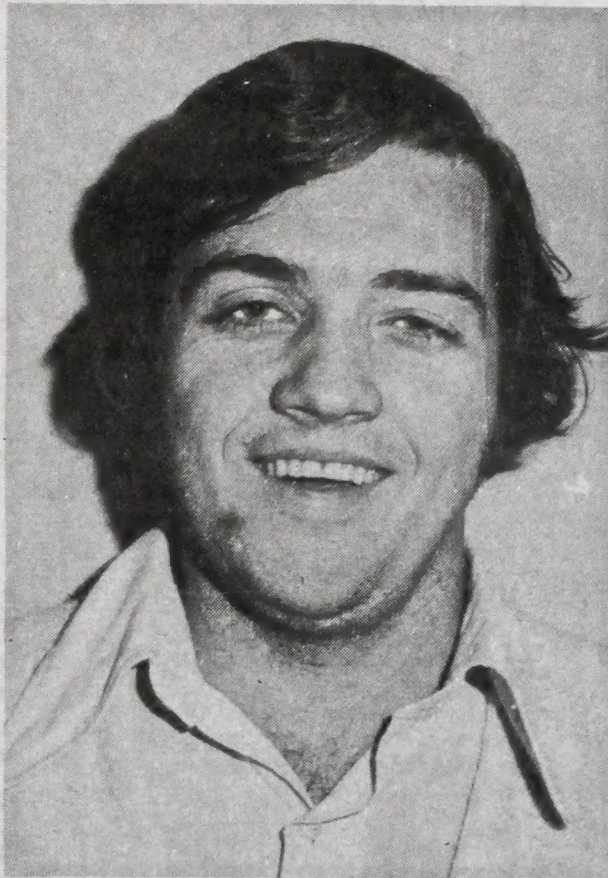

The SPEED RIVER SNOWMOBILE CLUB schedules a Landowner Appreciation Night at which all property owners who have granted permission for trails are honored with a monster banquet and dance. The gala event takes place this year in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Maryhill at the end of the snowmobiling season, March 25th.

...and community service, too

The Carluke Trail Twisters, a two year old club of fifty families, has contributed Two Hundred and Fifty dollars in equipment to the Senior Citizens Achievement Centre in Haliburton, Ontario. The money was used for a public address system, with speakers and amplifier, a coffee percolator, cannister set, various pots and pans for the kitchen, and flood lights. In addition, a Mum plant was presented to the community's Mrs. John Thompson, 93 years young in November. At about the same time, a cheque for $250 was given to the Carluke Community Centre for renovations to the hall. The item did not say how the money was raised but we can be sure it took a little effort.

DENNIS CASEY

Dennis Casey, newly-elected President of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, it was announced this week.
